

If you or someone close to you has a serious illness with symptoms that are not well controlled, or treatment is no longer working, our palliative care navigation program may be right for you.

What is palliative care?

Palliative care describes a health care program which seeks to improve the quality of life for patients and families who are facing serious or advanced illness. Palliative care provides close attention to the emotional, physical and social aspects of illness.

The team includes:

- Your personal physician
- Medical director
- Registered nurses
- Licensed practical nurses
- Home health aides
- Social workers
- Physical therapists
- Occupational therapists
- Speech therapists
- Pharmacists
- Registered dietitians

What does the palliative care navigation team offer?

Management of difficult symptoms:

Pain, nausea, anxiety, fatigue, depression, shortness of breath, constipation, loss of appetite and other symptoms may accompany serious illness or can be side effects of current treatment.

Addressing changing goals of care:

- Helping you consider care options and make decisions about quality of life
- Interpreting the benefits and burdens of care, such as tests, surgeries or medication

Enhancing patient and family support:

- Help identify what is important to you and your family
- Support communication in complicated family situations
- Promote well-being and peace of mind
- Promote the best quality of life
